Research and School Improvement Services

Every school has its objectives. The challenge exists in how to find a solution to your pressure points or find an effective route to achieving improvements.

We understand that by connecting with professional research, in-school research, and evaluating evidence, your school can embark on a journey, planning effectively and ultimately meeting your CPD and school improvement goals.

NFER offers services for all stages of your journey. We'll assist you in meeting your aims and helping you to deliver maximum impact.

“This research engagement has contributed to the school’s recent improved examination results”

Self-Review Tool

To steer high impact CPD / School improvement plans, your school needs to be research engaged. This free online tool is the starting place for your journey, measuring your individual or full school staff research engagement levels. It will highlight ongoing progress, guide your next steps and pinpoint useful resources.

Enquiring Schools

A tailored CPD programme focussed on the individual pressure points, aspirations and objectives of each school or college. The programme typically lasts 12 months and ranges from three to five facilitator led days in your school.

This fresh approach to teacher development and school improvement coaches staff on key research methodologies, delivers ongoing guidance to your projects and helps you drive high impact teaching and learning

Research Mark

A recognised national award scheme providing accreditation for schools or colleges engaging with professional research, in-school research and evaluating evidence to help aid key objectives.

Following our simple application process, NFER will visit your school to discuss and identify your achievements, offer useful feedback, provide recommendations and write a comprehensive report. Based on your practice, you will then be awarded our Research Mark certification.

Register for free and obtain your downloadable welcome pack now.
